

Cane-line®

- life made comfortable

PRIOR to first use the tabletop must be treated with the accompanying impregnating fluid. This will prolong the life of the product and make it more resistant.

The tabletop must be clean and dry and should not be impregnated in direct sunlight. To apply the fluid, use a paintbrush, roller or lint-free cloth. You should treat both the table top and any areas of visible slate on the sides. Wipe off excess impregnating fluid within an hour. Full protection of the tabletop will be achieved after 2 -3 hours.

The treated table is resistant to both dirt and to wind and weather. To maintain these properties, it should be retreated once a year. Cane-line recommends treating the table before taking it into use at the start of the new season.

If cleaning is necessary, wipe the tabletop with a damp cloth or wash with a mild soap solution. Do not use chemical cleaners on the tabletop as this could damage the grouting and stone and impair the effect of the impregnation.

The tabletop does not withstand frost so it must be stored indoors during the winter. You could try using the original packaging to protect the tabletop from impact when moving it indoors.
